

Q1 Removal of the State from substance use commitments

Answered: 28 Skipped: 0

Answer Choices	Responses
The larger group	50.00% 14
A smaller workgroup	50.00% 14
Total	28

#	Comments	Date
1	It is unclear what this refers to.	7/14/2014 8:47 AM
2	It would be worthwhile to hear the downside of doing this, if any, from the state's view. I think there was some confusion in the smaller group as to where the delays were (with Yolonda's workload)-at the emergency commitment phase (5 day hold, 27-81-111) or the IC phase where the person is involuntarily committed to the "unit?" (30 day IC, 27-81-112)	7/11/2014 4:22 PM
3	Should be pretty easy - we talked about this so much in the past	7/11/2014 11:55 AM
4	this should be addressed by those that need to use this commitment statute and must include people with lived experience or families	7/11/2014 9:37 AM
5	need to make sure the hospitals are there, this wasn't opposed last session	7/11/2014 9:24 AM
6	I am not sure what this statement means. Although, not an attorney, it would seem to me that any involuntary commitments would depend on, and refer to, existing State statute(s). So I am not sure how the State could be removed.	7/11/2014 8:14 AM
7	In general, a small work group representative of divergent opinions, followed by the larger group	7/10/2014 5:49 PM
8	I chose the larger group option only because it would not allow me to choose no option. I am not yet knowledgeable about this to comment.	7/9/2014 7:24 PM
9	My concern is that smaller groups limit exposure and tend to fit the cause into a specific agenda/outcome. As many viewpoints as possible need to be considered (through large group participation).	7/9/2014 2:24 PM
10	Is this a question of WHETHER this should occur, or how it would occur? I have objections to removing the state from the process.	7/9/2014 12:00 PM
11	The issue has substantial ramifications regarding the executive functioning of the state, particularly DHS and OBH. A larger discussion and vote would go a long way to providing authenticity to the outcome.	7/9/2014 10:58 AM

Civil Commitment Statute Review Task Force Items for Consideration – 2014

12	I think this issue is very complicated and having more than a few people to has everything out would be chaos.	7/9/2014 10:22 AM
----	--	-------------------